Good Reminder #Napping

How Long to Nap

10 to 20 Minutes
This power nap is ideal for a boost in alertness and energy, experts say. This length usually limits you to the lighter stages of non-rapid eye movement (NREM) sleep, making it easier to hit the ground running after waking up.

30 Minutes
Some studies show sleeping this long may cause sleep inertia, a hangover-like groggy feeling that lasts for up to 30 minutes after waking up, before the nap's restorative benefits become apparent.

60 Minutes

90 Minutes
This is a full cycle of sleep, meaning the deeper stages, including REM (rapid eye movement) sleep, typically likened to the dreaming stage. This leads to improved emotional and procedural (i.e. riding a bike, playing the piano) and a nap of this length typically avoids sleep inertia upon waking up.

Napping Can Dramatically Increase Learning, Memory, Awareness, And More

Many Europeans believe in the benefits of napping so much that they shut down in the afternoon to allow everyone to take a quick power nap, recharge, and...

' It was modified in only two ways; (a) by modernization; (b) by a different, probably very ancient, tradition of long thin canoes without outriggers in which men often stand to propel the boat along, e.g. Asian dragon boats, Asmat canoes and the boats incised on the sides of Dong Son drums.'

The Austronesian Contribution

Rafts, skin boats, dug-out canoes and particularly sewn boats were all clearly so widespread over Asia when archaeological and historical records began that they must predate the Austronesians. We might try to list the features of characteristic recent Austronesian boats and decide which ones can be...

Marco D Nepomuceno It's because at a campfire, there's always hot dogs and marshmallows for roasting on a stick. Besides, there's nothing wrong with a salty-sweet combination. That happens a lot of times when you buy from the "dirty" ice cream vendor--some of the salt used in the freezing process falls into the ice cream and produces a not unpleasant taste.

I hope there is something done to compensate for the extra work, like a fee deposit like one that is used in car rentals and apt/home rentals only returned if the area is spotless. Or maybe just an extra clean-up charge for everyone who uses the area for the day. 😞
